& Friends

Simple forms, close friends, and happy thoughts are some of the inspiration behind Mustache and Friends, a distinct international line of neckties for men and woman. Industrial designer Mimi Kirmaci wanted to give her friends, a group of international designers and personalities themselves, something special, something personal and something from the heart when she conceived the idea with a simple sketch last year.

The Brooklyn-based designer, whose work appears in the Guggenheim Museum and MOMA Design Stores in New York and Istanbul started with a warm familiar feeling from her native Turkey and quickly spun the homemade line into a series of edges and forms playfully matched to each friend. The neck tie is rarely re-imagined as a unisex window into the attitude and soul of those closest to you, just as friendship is rarely worn so beautifully. Kirmaci does both with a smile.
